

Linux Gold Corp. symbol LNXGF is involved with the exploration of mineral properties in lucrative areas of Alaska known for finding gold and other precious minerals. It's strategy is to focus on prospective areas that have the geology to become producing mines. The company currently plans to explore and drill their highly promising gold and platinum properties: Trout Property (Gold Prospect) near the Livengood, Tolovana mining district, Dime Creek (Gold and Platinum Property) near Granite Mountain, and the Fish Creek (Gold Prospect), both of which the company is currently developing.

Quick FACTS

PROPERTIES

- ❖ The Trout property is comprised of claims covering several blocks in the Livengood-Tolovana Mining District near International Tower Hill (ITH.V - $8.00). The International Tower Hill property is proving to be a major gold discovery with a reported 12 million oz. gold indicated and inferred. Linux is preparing an aggressive drill program on Trout for Spring 2012.
- ❖ Dime Creek - on the eastern Seward Peninsula of Alaska, Linux Gold Corp. owns:
 - 100% interest in a strip of 12 contiguous State of Alaska mining claims
- ❖ Fish Creek (50-50 JV Property): Linux Gold Corp. holds 50% interest in 30 mineral claims known as the Fish Creek Prospect situated 20 miles northeast of Fairbanks. The 50% interest is optioned to Teryl Resources Corp. (TRC.V), wherein after $400,000 is spent, Linux can backin for a 25% interest or keep a 5% net profit interest. Furgo Airborne Survey, Inc. has identified six main gold targets on the site and Linux is considering a low-cost placer mining operation.

INVESTMENT HIGHLIGHTS

- ❖ Linux Gold Corp. owns a diverse group of highly prospective properties that show strong gold / platinum mineralization and clear evidence of a wide range of other metals.
- ❖ Linux's Alaskan properties are near major deposits and successful operating mines that both have a history of placer and shallow hand mining.
- ❖ Gold hedge against a weaker US$ and inflation drives continued strong demand for gold.
- ❖ Linux experienced management team with 30 years expertise in mineral exploration.

STRATEGIC PLAN

- ❖ Linux Gold Corp. is currently in the process of raising funds for plans to start drilling their most promising property, the Trout - Gold Property near International Tower Hill in Alaska.
- ❖ The company will conduct exploration programs on all properties to establish mineral reserves registered under a 43101 technical report

HISTORY

Linux Gold Corp. has been exploring gold prospects in Alaska for several years. The Dime Creek Gold/Platinum Property has impressive neighbors including Tech Cominco, NovaGold and Northern Dynasty, which have discovered significant gold, copper and zinc reserves. Tech Cominco owns the world's largest zinc deposit some 180 miles to the north where it has identified over $20 billion worth of zinc reserves.

The Fish Creek - Gold Property is located within six miles of Kinross Gold Corp.'s Fort Knox Mine, which has been in operation over several years and produces up to 400,000 ounces of gold annually. Kinross is the largest Alaskan and 4th largest global producer of gold.

Linux Gold Corp. has several gold claims located in the well-known Livengood Mining District of Alaska where International Tower Hill has a property are trading around $8.00 per share (06/09/11). An aggressive exploration program is planned later this year and early next year on the company's Trout - Gold Property.

NOV 16 2011 IT'S ALL ABOUT GOLD NOW

Renowned economist Martin Armstrong says, “What this is really about is it’s the entire Western civilization that’s starting to crumble.” In an interview Monday on King World News, Armstrong warned, “Everything is falling apart and the politicians will not address it because it means having to change the system and that’s what they do not want to do. The real big money that I speak to, they are really starting to look beyond Italy, Greece, Spain and Portugal. They are starting to look at France and Germany.” Armstrong goes on to say, “They have borrowed year after year with no intention of paying it back. The US had $1 trillion of debt when Ronald Reagan took office in 1980. We are now pressing $15 trillion of debt.” The debt crisis throughout the Western world will push the price of the yellow metal higher even though it is currently range bound. Armstrong says, “Basically what you are doing is you are building a sideways type of base. Eventually gold is going to take off to the upside, but largely when people begin to see the Emperor has no clothes and we’re getting close to that. I would only give it a few more months.”

When the next financial calamity hits, the Fed and other central banks will have two choices.

They can print money to try and save the system they love, or let it implode. That means this is really all about gold now. <http://usawatchdog.com/it%E2%80%99s-all-about-gold-now/>

How a Gold Bull Market Works

Every major gold bull market in modern history has consisted of three main stages:

1. Currency Devaluation Stage

2. Investment Demand Stage

3. Mania Stage

During these three stages, gold prices typically rise in a major upswing, which ultimately results in a sharp, skyrocketing price spike.

So far in today's gold bull market, we've seen evidence of the first two stages:

During the first stage of a gold bull market, prices increase because of currency devaluation.

So far in this bull market, a dramatic drop in the value of the U.S. dollar against other world currencies has lifted gold prices over the past seven years, breaking the $1,800 per ounce mark.

In fact, this devaluation is evident in the continuous crash of the greenback.

And now — thanks to massive spending that we can't REALLY pay for, a downgraded credit line, and compounded debt — we're about to add some TNT to an already highly-explosive situation...

In the second stage, gold prices continue to grow due to increased investment demand.

Attracted by the modest gains of the first stage of the gold bull market, investors begin to buy gold as an investment, which further snowballs the price of gold.

And with today's screaming demand for physical gold, the introduction of gold ETFs and similar products, investment demand has had incredible strength since the beginning of this gold bull market, growing in terms of both tonnage and dollar demand.

Again, the first and second stages of a gold bull market generally return considerable gains. In fact, gold prices in this bull market have increased as much as 306%.

Don't worry if you missed it...

Truth be told, it's the third and final stage of a gold bull market that can turn everyday investors into instant millionaires

How the Mania Stage of a Gold Bull Market Could Hand You Several Thousand Percent Gains in Very Short Order

People back in the 1970's know there's no rush like a gold rush.

And a speculative mania can kindle an inferno of popular greed that rivals that of the Conquistador's legendary lust for gold.

During the third stage of a bull market, mania buying finally turns gold's upswing into a major price spike

Make no mistake — the mania stage has started. And this time compared to the 1970's, it's happening across the entire globe.

- Earlier this year, the U.S. Mint suspended sales for its American Eagle 1 ounce gold coin.
- The South African Rand Refinery — makers of the infamous Krugerrands — admitted to being temporarily bone-dry.
- Australia's Perth Mint announced they were no longer selling gold to citizens.
- Germany's Bundesbank refuses to sell their gold to the public, claiming it as a strategic asset required for the confidence and stability of the euro.
- The World Gold Council recently reported an all-time quarterly record ($32 billion) for gold as investors seek refuge from global financial meltdown. That's an astounding 45% increase from any amount ever on record.

And this rapidly spreading shortage is only the beginning of what is bound to launch gold prices to levels of mass hysteria... making those on top of the wave very rich. Does $5000 per ounce sound far fetched, I don't think so.
